

Hollywood America : What do you do about that?

Joanna Emiline Holthe - Geelix Foundation - 10/28/08

On October 23, 2008, Martin Sheen serving as co-chairman spoke to the bystanders outside the Hall of Justice in San Francisco, on the No on Proposition 5 Campaign.

Picture 1. Mr. Sheen speaking at the Hall of Justice, Superior Court of California.

Proposition 5 could divert offenders from serving jail or prison time by undergoing treatment. Martin Sheen believes in tough love, and that we should not be too soft on addicts, because it would expand the pool of offenders.

Sheen described his battles with alcoholism and efforts to help his son, actor Charlie Sheen, to stop abusing drugs. Sheen has said the threat of jail time by a judge is needed to force addicts to commit to recovery.

Martin Sheen is an example of a life that has fame, wealth, and attention, but yet suffered from alcoholism and had a son that was addicted to drugs.

Hollywood's Entertainment gives an impression to young people that that's the life you should strive for, that's the life you want. Young people drop out of school and don't bother getting an education because they want to be apart of Hollywood America.

What do you do about that?

By School, Church, and Positive Edutainment, giving teens and young adults the chance to strive to become and do better in life and by motivating them to help others by creating positive video games and serious edutainment.

